IRVINE, Calif. – January 11, 2023 – Axonics, Inc. (Nasdaq: AXNX), a global medical technology company that is developing and commercializing novel products for the treatment of bladder and bowel dysfunction, today reported preliminary unaudited revenue for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2022 and issued fiscal year 2023 revenue guidance.

“This quarter’s record revenue result reflects the growing demand for our best-in-class incontinence products,” said Raymond W. Cohen, chief executive officer of Axonics. “Our U.S. commercial team is continuing to take advantage of increased patient awareness and the overwhelmingly positive physician response to the Axonics F15™ recharge-free sacral neuromodulation system while leveraging cross selling opportunities with Bulkamid®. Our unique hydrogel generated another record revenue quarter and in fiscal year 2022, Bulkamid has been used to treat over 50,000 women with stress urinary incontinence.”

Cohen continued, “In 2022, in addition to strong commercial execution, we continued to make progress on several key initiatives, including our direct-to-consumer advertising campaign and expansion of our in-house manufacturing capabilities that has benefited gross margin. We look forward to FDA approval of our fourth-generation rechargeable sacral neuromodulation system in 1Q23 and remain confident that our commitment to innovation, quality and providing physicians and patients strong clinical support will continue to drive market expansion and advance Axonics on its path to incontinence market leadership.”
